Agenda and proposal from Youths to Experts at the “Dialogue between Youths and Experts”, a open-event at “Asia-Pacific Water Summit”.

We the youth hereby proclaim to establish the Youth Disaster Reconstruction Volunteer Network with the rising awareness of disaster threats and in aim for the earliest possible reconstruction of the afflicted areas.

I. What We Decide (from agenda of the “Asia-Pacific Youths water summit”)

1. We will exert our youth power to bring back the smiles on the faces of the victims and will actualize prompt support to revitalize the afflicted areas.
2. We will precisely identify the emergency information of the afflicted areas and will immediately spread information extensively.
3. We will be fully aware of the possibility of secondary disasters and will voluntarily hurry over to the afflicted areas.
4. We will also create the “Youth action map” that specifically identifies the relationship of various activities each youth is involved in the respective regions.
5. We will send out information pertaining to methods of disaster support and will provide more opportunities for information exchange.
6. We will communicate our know-how and thoughts to junior high and high school students. As a guest-teacher of disaster preventions at schools, or as a staff of a event for students, we would like to let them take over our activities.
7. For more quick cooperation with one another in emergency situations, we will provide opportunities for exchange on a regular basis where college students from various regions can get to know each other and will work hard to enhance the sharing of information and networking.

II. What we propose and what we request

A) For civic groups in basins

1. We request the opportunities that we can hold enjoyable events for information exchange.
2. We request civic groups in afflicted areas to supply local information.
3. We request civic groups to tell capable facilities when disasters are occurred.
4. We request skilled peoples to make training programs and hold workshops.
5. As a guest teacher and staff of the events for students, we request the opportunities that we can tell high school students and junior high school students about disaster preventions and water environmental activities.

B) For administrations, governments and enterprises

1. For youths' prompt support, we request cooperating groups and local groups to supply information about afflicted areas.
2. As a guest teacher and staff of the events for students, we request the opportunities that we can tell high school students and junior high school students about disaster preventions and water environmental activities.
3. We request administration, government and enterprise people in afflicted areas to supply materials which are needed for our activities.
4. We request skilled peoples to make training programs and hold workshops.
5. We request active utilization of "Youths action map". Moreover, we request experts' cooperation.
6. We request the "Water-related students' exchange program". Specifically, we request to facilitate youths' participation and make solid program, as well as financial and systematic cooperation, such as establishing the relationships among host countries.
7. To know secondary disasters, we request the supplement of the information about disasters.
8. We request to supply that we can hold activity exchange events in Japan in rotation. We hope that this youths' summit in Beppu is realized as a first youths' Asia-Pacific summit, and we wish that we are going to hold the "Asia-Pacific Youths' summit" in Japan and in the World again.

We the Youths promise these actions above.

To realize these actions, we hope that we can receive positive proposals and opinions from experts.
